FROM THE BOYS IN SERVICE

Recent Letters Descriptive of the Life of the Boys in Army and Navy

Rev. S. L. Vincent of Townshend has received the following letter from his son: Belgium, Nov. 29.

Dear Father:—

Well, the war is over and I am still safe and sound. I intended to write sooner, but we were on the move so much of the time that I couldn't get to it. I lost my fountain pen the other day, so please excuse me for writing this in pencil.

The end of the war found me in Belgium instead of France. We were up on the lines ready to make an attack when the news came that the armistice had been signed, so instead of attacking we moved into billets nearby.

We landed in Belgium about Oct. 20, near Ypres, of which you have read. I shall never forget how it looked. There the shell holes were so close together that there was hardly room for a foot-path between them. The trees left standing were only stumps. All the limbs had been shot off by shell fire.

Buildings were so completely destroyed that it was hard to realize that it had once been a densely populated country. Further back, conditions were not so bad. Many of the buildings were practically unharmed and fields were under cultivation. Some towns where the German had made stands in their retreat were pretty badly wrecked while others were left unharmed.

I like the country here in Belgium better than in France. They have much better soil for farming for one thing. The country, especially the western part of it, is not nearly so hilly as France. Here the houses are all made of brick. In France they are made of stone. At present I am billeted in an old schoolhouse. It is the best place we have had in a long time. I am certainly thankful that it is over. It is beginning to get rather cold, and living out in the open with no shelter save a hole in the ground, as we had to do when in action, would be unpleasant, to say the least. Just at present our principal amusement is speculating when we will start back for the states. Some think we will be back by Christmas or the first of January. Others think we will be kept over here several months yet. I hope none of you have suffered with the Spanish influenza. I suppose by this time they have it pretty well under control. I certainly hope so. Well I must close now as I have other letters to write. Please remember me to all my friends there and tell them that I expect to be back there before very long. Love and best wishes to all.

CLAUDE S. VINCENT.

Besides his wife he leaves a son, Fred A. Holton, and two daughters, Miss Iola and Miss Daisy, all of this town. He also leaves two sisters, Mrs. Helen Mason of Boston and Mrs. W. A. Priest of Northfield. Augustus P. Holton, late of Westfield, Mass., was a brother and an architect of note.

The funeral will be held Saturday at 1.30 o'clock and Rev. F. W. Pattison will officiate.

Mr. Holton took a deep interest in town affairs, was a man of strong principles and honorable in all his dealings.

Ten maternity patients were under care and 52 calls were made; in the district work 71 patients were under care and 220 calls were made; six attendants were on duty 147 days and were employed 185 days.

JUDGE WATERMAN TO RETIRE.

Hitt were in the front rank of the strong law firms of Vermont and had a wide reputation elsewhere.

In 1891 Judge Waterman was appointed special attorney for the United States to appear for the government in claims growing out of the Civil war. In 1896 he was elected judge of the probate court for the district of Marlboro, holding the office several years. In 1899 United States Judge Hoyt H. Wheeler of Brattleboro, who died in November, 1906, appointed Judge Waterman master to conduct by auction the sale of the Central Vermont railroad, the company being in the hands of a receiver, and later he was one of the attorneys who brought to a successful termination the Thompson will contest in Boston, by reason whereof the Memorial hospital came to be established in Brattleboro.

Brattleboro sent Judge Waterman to Montpelier as town representative in 1900, and he served as chairman of the house judiciary committee. In May, 1906, he was elected president of the Brattleboro and Whitehall railroad company to succeed the late Charles F. Thompson of this town. At the time of his election as superior judge Judge Waterman held the presidency of the Brattleboro Savings bank, which position he resigned.

Judge Waterman has been president of the Vermont Bar association and has been counsel in many important cases, not only in the state courts but in the United States courts.

On May 15, 1864, Judge Waterman married Jennie E., daughter of Aaron and Julia D. Remis of Windham. Their six children are: Mrs. Mabel J. Webster, Dr. Halbert L. Waterman, Captain Ernest J. Waterman, Ethel L., wife of Charles A. Boyden, and Alice M. Waterman, all of Brattleboro, and Hugh A. Waterman of New York.

Judge and Mrs. Waterman observed their golden wedding anniversary May 15, 1914, surrounded by their six children and seven grandchildren. Formerly they lived in the Sherman house near the junction of Green and High streets, which they sold in 1907 to their son, Captain Ernest J. Waterman, moving to the Colonial. In 1916 they bought the Boyden house on Walnut street, where they now live. Judge Waterman has been a member of the Centre Congregational church since 1889.
